Evelyn Zeglinas is an associate in the Harwood Andrews property and business law practice areas.

Prior to commencing at Harwood Andrews, Evelyn spent a number of years working as a commercial solicitor where she practiced in business and property. She has acted for a wide range of clients, including high net-worth companies/ individuals, property investors, community housing providers, small businesses and not-for-profit organisations and brings a unique perspective to her practice, having worked across a range of industries, such as hotels and tourism, community housing sector, motorsports and entertainment.

Evelyn has undertaken secondments within a community housing organisation in support of their commercial activities and therefore has insight into the specific needs and challenges of organisations and is able to offer tailored solutions that align with the broader goals and objectives of her clients.
